Broken Anvil Miniatures
Renton, WA

Hi BAM!

My name is Allie, I am a fantasy artist with a nerdy passion for storytelling, character design, and dragons. I've been involved in the ttrpg space as a player for years. And I have too many hobbies and things I love to do than there is time in the day, but they all feed my art. Archery, hiking, gardening, biology, history, mythology, anime, video games, wood carving, cooking, travel, and reading. Nothing is spared when I want to learn new things.

I have an adaptable pallet of skills from freelancing and prior work that I believe translate well to a concept artist or a fantasy illustrator position. I've used mood boards and style guides to strengthen research and development, and communication of feedback for alterations and changes. I use Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, and other office management programs to organize, design, and present final products. And in general I enjoy working out a prompt like a puzzle, no matter what level of detail is needed.

I come ready to learn. I bring a love of concepting and my unique take on ideas with a playful balance of shape and form. I love merging symbolism into designs and line art, and I also enjoy bringing those images to finish. I would love to work on your team and bring all my nerdy passions with me!

Thank you for this opportunity!
Allie Briggs
